

Miss Krueger's Kindergarten Class

May 22nd, 2015

Reading: Our new big book of the week was Hattie and the Fox. The kids loved hearing the different voices and phrases that all of the characters said to Hattie the Hen when she kept warning them of the fox. Last week, I forgot to put that we were going to learn the oi and ue sounds. We are almost done with our Jolly Phonics book!

Writing: The students have been working on their thank you letters to Mr. Gundlach over at Randolph for the field trip we had a few weeks ago. It was great to see them write down what their favorite memory of the trip was.

Math: The students continued to learn about telling time this week. It got a bit trickier adding in the quarter past and quarter to. We will keep on working on this and my hope is that they'll be able to tell time down to the nearest five minutes.

Interest Day: We had a fun and exciting first interest day! The kids started off the day with Mr. Buechel playing bocce ball. We then headed outside to see the goats. They were able to pet the goats and feed them too! We headed off to the Hendrickson's farm to check everything out. You probably noticed the catapults they made. Hopefully, they are only using mini marshmallows and Cheerios ☺ They also left with a boatload of candy from candy bar bingo and cookies they decorated. Sorry for all the sugar!

Zoo:

This week, we have looked at zebras, monkeys, and giraffes. The kids are getting pumped up and can't wait to see all the different animals at the zoo.

Literacy Night:

On Tuesday, please join us as the elementary school has their literacy night. Our class will be reading their how to books they finished up and they look forward to sharing them if you attend. The evening kicks off at 5PM in the elementary gym. I look forward to seeing many of you there.

Graduation:

Family and friends are encouraged to attend our graduation! The kids have been practicing their graduation song and are excited to be making the move to 1st grade!

Upcoming Dates:

May 25th – No School
May 26th – Literacy Night @ 5 PM
May 29th – Madison Zoo Field Trip
June 4th – Graduation @ 9 AM

Theme for Next Week:

- Zoo
- Jolly Phonics: er
- Sight Word: "make"

Don't forget to have your students bring a sack lunch if they chose that option for our field trip on Friday!

Have a safe
Memorial Day Weekend!!!
