

Miss Krueger's Kindergarten Class

October 10, 2014

Reading: We read “Old MacDonald” this week and learned about all the animals he had! Some students noticed on the alphabet chart that A,E,I,O, and U were red instead of blue, so the “EIEIO” chorus helped introduce us to vowels. We focused on writing our letter of the week, Pp. We added “is” to our writing bank also.

Writing: We still have been working on stretching out words with our writing. Starting next week, we will start thinking about “hard to write” topics such as feelings. We will be talking a lot more with our partners about what ideas we can write about.

Math: We started this week by working on writing the numbers 9 and 10. The students had fun using their snap cubes to act out math problems and comparing numbers. Today, we started ordinal numbers. Ask your student if they can remember what an “ordinal number” is!

Farm: We made handprint sheep on Monday to wrap up our Sheep portion of our farm book. We then moved on to roosters! We completed a diagram and an informational chart on the animal as well. Today we wrapped up our farm week by reading a book about horses. We then filled out our charts. The “My Farm Book” will be sent home in the near future!

Parent-Teacher Conferences:

Thank you for the successful parent-teacher conferences! If you remembered something you wanted to ask, I am just a phone call or e-mail away.

PALS Testing:

Next week, testing will begin for PALS. It’s going to be a strange week for the students. They will head over to Ms. Quick’s classroom while I am testing small groups and vice versa.

Sorry!

In past newsletters, I mistakenly wrote that picture retakes would be available during conferences. It actually was the morning of conferences. I feel terrible about this and cannot express how sorry I am about this mixup.

Upcoming Dates:

October 17th – School Spirit Day

*Wear your Hilltopper Gear and any Red/Black you have!

October 17th – Homecoming Game

October 24th – No School

October 31st - Halloween Costume Parade

Theme for Next Week:

- PALS Testing – No Theme
- Letter Nn
- Sight word “I”

Be sure to bookmark our classroom website:

<http://cfkruegerkindergarten.weebly.com>

Have a great weekend!