

Miss Krueger's Kindergarten Class

September 26, 2014

Reading: We read the big book “We’re Going On A Leaf Hunt” by Steve Metzger this week. We focused on counting syllables and words that describe sounds (onomatopoeias). We have added Read to Someone to our Daily 5 rotations. Next week, we will learn add Word Work to the mix. I also started working with guided reading groups when the rotations are occurring. We worked on writing the letter Tt and sight word “that”.

Writing: The students are working hard at stretching out the words they want to write. Students say the word and write down every sound that they hear. They have an alphabet chart available to help them find a similar beginning letter sound.

Math: This week we learned about adding one more to a number and drawing a diagram to help solve problems. We reviewed for our test on Wednesday and tried to follow directions as best as possible! We took the test this afternoon, so I will grade it over the weekend.

Science: Our science this week tied in with our reading! We were able to head out on a leaf hunt on Wednesday afternoon. It was fun to see how the leaves are changing colors. Ask your student about what colors they remember seeing on our leaf hunt!

Classroom Website:

The website is finally ready! You can check out pictures from field trip to Lapacek’s Apple Orchard and the classroom. I will be adding more pictures and putting the newsletters on the website as well.
